Page 2, Q3. Do you have a dedicated enforcement program manager that compiles enforcement cases and issues enforcement actions?

1	Texas has an Enforcement Department that utilizes case preparation officers and attorneys to work accross the several types of programs that TDA regulates.	Feb 13, 2012 10:26 AM
2	Yes, CA's Structural Board has a dedicated PMgr for fraud, workmanship cases; DPR does not; relies upon County Ag Commissioner system for pesticide misuse cases	Feb 3, 2012 12:42 AM
3	2 enforcement administrators, 2 case managers and 1 clerical position	Feb 2, 2012 7:24 AM
4	We have a unit of 4 that spends > 50% on monetraty significant enforcement actions. Warning letters are issued by program units.	Jan 27, 2012 1:28 PM

12	Dedicated Manager and 2 Field Supervisors	Jan 25, 2012 8:09 AM
13	Field Supervisors review the case files and suggest proper enforcement actions	Jan 25, 2012 7:44 AM
14	In Virginia, the enforcement and compliance functions are seperate and performed by dedicated staff. We have an Enforcement Supervisor who reviews all cases (cases are developed by Investigators). Cases are then forwarded to the Compliance Manager for enforcement action.	Jan 25, 2012 7:35 AM

Page 6, Q10. On formal enforcement cases, how does your agency compile civil penalties to associated violations? Does your agency:

1	We actually do not use civil penalties as to do so we are required to file in court. We do not have monetary administrative authority either. We have the ability to suspend, deny or revoke but to 'address' this we also offer an alternative penalty which is based on a penalty matrix similar to what others with admin penalties might use. This alternative penalty is initially monetary but is usually negotiated during a compliance conference and other actions may be accepted in lieu of monetary. This might include training, revising business practices, sponsoring training, notification to customers, correction of application, etc. We leave that open to their suggestions in mitigating the penalty.	Feb 1, 2012 6:31 PM
2	Generally, penalties are multiplied by the number of violations. However, it is much more complicated than that since we use a number of factors to take into account the severity of the violation e.g. licensed vs unlicensed applicator. bottom line it that each is dealt with on an individual basis.	Jan 27, 2012 1:34 PM
3	We group and count similar but will issue civil penalty on each separate group - ex 4 record/use violations one civil penalty; 2 recordskeeping violations - additional civil penalty.	Jan 26, 2012 6:41 AM
4	All violations are noted in the case file. When the General Council reviews and prepares the case for civil penalty they will decide how to procede. Typically violations like record keeping will be combined into one charge. Multiple drift complaints filed by different complainants will be handled seperatly with multiple violations even if it appears to have ocured from the same event.	Jan 26, 2012 6:01 AM
5	Multiple related violations are grouped as an incident. (Interpret "related" broadly.) The commissioner is then free to pursue one or more violations as fine actions ($250 to $5000 each) as appropriate for the incident.	Jan 25, 2012 2:46 PM
6	It varies depending on the impact to human health or property, the willingness of the respondent to comply etc. We are probably closest to b.	Jan 25, 2012 2:30 PM
7	This is always a unique case by case situation. Whichever way will produce the desire affect/	Jan 25, 2012 1:11 PM
8	We don't generally do civil penalties. Our enforcement actions are typically of the administrative type.	Jan 25, 2012 9:57 AM
9	Wyoming does not issue civil penalties. Cases are filed w/ county attorney for further action.	Jan 25, 2012 9:18 AM
10	The Enforcement Action lists each violation found as separate counts (if more than one), assigns a proposed penalty amount to each violation/count (recordkeeping violations are typically assigned a smaller penalty amount than actual use violations) and the individual penalty amounts are added up and that is the proposed penalty.	Jan 25, 2012 9:04 AM
11	Optional - Board decides on a case by case basis	Jan 25, 2012 8:28 AM
12	Discretion is used depending on the severity of violation. Some are grouped/counted as one penalty, others are counted seperately	Jan 25, 2012 8:06 AM

Page 6, Q10. On formal enforcement cases, how does your agency compile civil penalties to associated violations? Does your agency:

13	We have a penalty matrix range set up for each violation type.	Jan 25, 2012 8:00 AM
14	For clarification, in Virginia, formal enforcement cases include both investigations and inspections in which violations are found. We do group violations, in general, if they are the result of the same application/use. For example, if during Application A, an applicator failed to wear the appropriate PPE and did not apply the product according to labeled rates, that would be one misuse violation and one civil penalty would be assessed. If it was determined that in addition to the misuse, the appropriate records were not kept, that would be a second violation and a separate civil penalty would be assessed. If in the same case, we documented misuse during Application B, that would be a second misuse violation and would receive a separate civil penalty. An exception to the grouping rule would be in the case of certification violations. For example, if there were more than one applicator involved in an application, and neither of them were certified, that would be two certification violations and two civil penalties would be issued.	Jan 25, 2012 7:56 AM
15	We can charge for multiple counts of use inconsistent with label directions	Jan 25, 2012 7:52 AM
16	The statute lists fines as per day of violation. The penalty policy calls for a higher penalty for the first day, and reduced amount for subsequent days of violation.	Jan 25, 2012 7:38 AM

Page 7, Q11. Does your state law have an Administrative Procedures Statute that requires due process prior to issuing civil penalties? Meaning that prior to the issuance of any civil penalty, the applicator has a legal right to a notice of charges and formal hearing upon request, which must be provided to th...

1	The notice of contemplated action outlines their choices, which always includes right to a hearing, providing additional evidence, accepting the proposed penalty or a compliance conference. There is a state administrative procedure act which outlines some of the steps as well as our own statutes and internal policy.	Feb 1, 2012 6:33 PM
2	We offer settlement opportunities in the notice of intent (NOI)document. The NOI indicates that we intend to take administrative of civil action.	Jan 27, 2012 1:38 PM
3	We do have an Administrative Procedures Statue, however, after the Violation notice and civil penalty is issued, then the applicator has the legal right to request a hearing etc.	Jan 26, 2012 6:34 AM
4	Our administrative civil penalties procedure defines a very abbreviated due process for notice, conduct of hearings, appeal, etc.	Jan 25, 2012 2:49 PM
5	Once it is decided that a civil penalty is warranted, we issue a Notice of Violation to the company which contains specifics of the violations and the proposed fine and/or license suspension. The company has 20 days to respond to us whether they wish to have a formal administrative hearing or they prefer to have an informal settlement conference. Most choose to have an informal settlement conference. They are allowed to have an attorney present at these informal settlements. At these informal settlements, they are allowed to produce evidence in their defense which we take into consideration. We will determine whether a reduction in the penalty is warranted and propose it to the company. If they accept, a consent agreement is issued and signed by all parties. If they choose to have a formal administrative hearing, our attorney general must request a hearings officer be appointed and she handles all procedures from that point.	Jan 25, 2012 11:37 AM
6	Varies in the form it is presented and all is done administrative.	Jan 25, 2012 10:31 AM
7	Upon issuing notice of the civil penalty, the applicator may request review by the Commercial Pesticide Applicator Peer Review Panel. Contested cases may follow through to formal administrative hearing.	Jan 25, 2012 10:27 AM
8	We also offer to conduct a pre-hearing settlement conference (without a hearing officer) where we can reach a negotiated reduced/suspended penalty and enter in an Assurance of Discontinuance (AOD) that outlines specific corrective actions and required timeframes for completing those actions, and usually requires that the applicator conduct business in compliance with the pesticide regulations for a required amount of time (1 to 5 years typically) or the suspended penalty will be imposed.	Jan 25, 2012 9:13 AM
9	The respondent has the right to appeal either the violation or the civil penalty AFTER issuance of the enforcement action (15 days).	Jan 25, 2012 8:03 AM
10	The applicator has the legal right to request a hearing be represented by counsel, provide evidence in their defense and contest the allegation after the civil penalty (settlement agreement) has been issued.	Jan 25, 2012 8:00 AM

25	Cost of the inspection, lab analysis and manager review (not the way to go!!!)	Jan 25, 2012 8:09 AM
26	The fining authority per violation is based upon the severity of the violation: not more than $1000 for less than serious; not more than $5000 for serious; and not more than $20,000 for repeat or knowing violations. There is also a provision for the assessment of an additional $100,000 for serious damage to the environment or serious injury to property or person. We utilize a decision matrix to determine each civil penalty issued.	Jan 25, 2012 8:03 AM
